HARVARD'S PHI BETA KAPPA.

A Notable Oration by Bishop Potter of New York.

Boston, June 26.—The annual meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Harvard College was held this afternoon. Colonel T. W. Higginson presided.

The oration was by Rt. Rev. Henry C. Potter, D. D., LL. D., his subject being "The Scholar and the State." Following is an abstract of his address:—The scholar is the child not only of his alma mater, but of the republic. The educated forces in a state owe a constant and never-decreasing debt to the state itself. There is a perpetual danger that educated men will become the critics of the state rather than its servants. The shouts and struggles of the arena are so coarse, selfish and unintelligent, the influences that move the public so frivolous and sophistical, the atmosphere of parties so obscured by prejudice or ignorance, that after the first enthusiasm of youthful citizenship the most potential element of those representing the trained thought and learning of the state withdraw from active concern for affairs of state and become merely lookers-on. The qualities mainly demanded in public life in our land and age are not such as are ordinarily bred in cloisters of learning or nurtured by study. They are, as a rule, adroitness of mental quality, a gift of popular expression, the power of attracting and attaching personal followers, a blind devotion to party and a convenient oblivion to finer scruples of conduct. But there is the scholar's opportunity. The republic is now confronted by three conspicuous dangers:—First, that policy of favoritism in our vast system of civil service which makes partisan service the basis for political preferment. That such a view should be held by a Tuscan bandit would not be surprising, but when it comes to be the deliberate conviction of men in high places when this new gospel of unscrupulous self-seeking is proclaimed as the only spell powerful enough to constrain a man to active interest in our political institutions, the teaching may well make honest people blush with keen and indignant shame. For the inevitable corollary is that no man who serves the state only from such motives will hesitate to sacrifice public interests to private ends whenever he can safely do so. That no higher sense of civic obligation is widely prevalent is shown by the painful fact that great parties and great personages affirm, on platforms and in official pronunciamentos, with unctuous solemnity, a virtue which in practice they find it no less easy, with open and brazen impunity, to flout and disregard. Such a situation never can be belittled as a mere partisan issue. It is an issue of morals, a question of common honesty. The public service is a public trust. Malfeasance in it is a greater crime than unfaithfulness to a private trust. Second—that of this evil has grown another of portentous import. Under the deteriorating influence of Roman conquests Roman greatness rapidly declined. Enriched by wealth wrung from barbaric neighbors, the imperial policy became one of profuse indulgence, until finally the crown was offered at auction to the highest bidder. Our war left behind a situation not less scandalous. The honorable provision for the war's victims threatens to become a pauperizing system. Never was there a pharisaism of philanthropy in which personal aggrandizement more impudently masqueraded in the garment of a grateful patriotism than our halls of Congress have lately presented, and the unmanly silence with which schemes so grotesque that they should have long ago been laughed out of any intelligent public assembly have been received, is one of the most amazing facts of our political experience. So far apart in time as are Rome and America, the resemblances of history are at once tragic and significant. The party that bids highest to this constituency is to be rewarded. Every camp follower gets his bribe. It is a system of government which deliberately conspires to degrade men. Third—Close akin to this evil is the gravest of all, because it threatens, deliberately the foundation upon which the safety of the family, state and nation must forever rest. This is the new dogma of conduct that there are certain acts and relationships of life which have absolutely no moral quality whatever—a claim that the common obligations of truth and honor, which bind men everywhere, must be repudiated in those whose gifts or place or influence enable them to abuse power to evil uses or turn aside the right to selfish ends, who consent to maxims and policies essentially corrupt and corrupting and brazenly defend them as legitimate elements of state craft which they declare is to be deliberately emptied of all regard for moral obligation. The life of nations is continually repeating itself, but one is at a loss in the past, to match the insolent candor, in this regard to which we have lately been treated.

The remainder of the address was devoted to an elucidation of what scholars can do to cure these evils, in ascertaining and interpreting the truth and participating in all that concerns the highest welfare of the state.

After the oration Richard Watson Gilder read the ode.

A DISTASTEFUL LAW.

The Illinois Grangers Have Given the Railroads a Bitter Pill.

Chicago, June 26.—The order recently issued by the Iowa railway commissioners requiring the roads in that state to make continuous rates over two or more roads in conformity with the joint rate bill, lately enacted by the legislature, bids fair to make more trouble than anything that has ever taken place in the line of granger legislation. The order is to become effective July 4, but the various lines in that state have agreed to ignore the order and, if the railroad commission compels any of them to adopt the new tariff and brings suit against them, a stubborn fight is to be made in the courts and the matter will be carried up to the Supreme Court.

MEXICAN INVADERS.

Two Bands Captured and Summarily Disposed of.

New York, June 26.—A special to the Herald from San Antonio, Texas, says:—"Two parties have made a marauding expedition against Mexico, one above and the other below Loredo. The band above were so hotly pursued on United States soil by United States troops, sent from Fort McIntosh, that they crossed over into Mexico before they intended to and fell into the hands of a large body of Mexican cavalry, which was ambushed to capture them as soon as they crossed the river. In the short fight that ensued, Santiago Sandoval, one of the leaders, was killed and several of the filibusters were wounded. Soon after their capture, another of the leaders was summarily shot and it is reported that Tuesday evening, after a brief military trial, the other members of the party were taken to a ravine back of Nuevo Laredo and shot by their captors. The second expedition crossed to Guerrero, twenty-five miles below Laredo, where they robbed the custom house and several stores. During their attack on the town one of the leaders was killed and shortly afterward the majority of the band were captured, but what was done with them remains a mystery. The Mexican authorities are studiously silent. All of the invaders were Mexican citizens and actuated by a desire for plunder."

THE FUTURE OF THE SUGAR TRUST.

A Great Corporation to be Organized Under Connecticut Laws.

New York, June 26.—A morning paper says:—"The trustees of the Sugar Trust will deal with the situation, created by the adverse decision of the court of appeals, at a meeting to be held next Monday. It is said that the program has already been tacitly decided upon, that the various refineries forming the trust will forfeit their charters, that the property will be bought up by the trust in the form of a great corporation organized under a Connecticut charter, and that in such shape the great combine will be impregnable against all legal assaults. The impression among people interested in the trust seemed to be yesterday that little effect of the court of appeals decision would be felt by the other trusts. Some of them are already organized as corporations and some of the others contemplate re-organizing on that basis. If the property involved in trusts be actually purchased by the combination instead of being merely controlled, it is said that under the court of appeals decision as it stands no attack will avail, no matter how great the combination assailed may be."

VIRGINIANS AND MARYLANDERS.

Fishermen Fight for Their Rights in Chesapeake Bay.

Onancock, Va., June 26.—For some time the inhabitants of Tangier island, which is in Chesapeake bay, within the jurisdiction of Virginia, have been stirred up by what they deemed the unlawful invasion of their fishing grounds by fishermen from Crisfield, Md. They finally determined to take decisive action against the intruders. Several days ago a large fleet of Maryland boats was sighted off the sound; and the islanders gathered all their vessels into a squadron and made an attack upon the astonished invaders. A general fusillade was opened upon the enemy and their vessels were scattered like chaff before the wind, finding anchorage in their own Maryland waters. The attacking fishermen were so jubilant at their easily-won victory that they shouted to the enemy that only a lack of ammunition prevented their further pursuit. At this announcement the conquered fishermen turned upon the visitors and chased the Virginians into their own harbors. The next day another battle was fought, both sides being better armed and provided with stores of ammunition. Two of the Maryland vessels were captured and the vanquished fishermen proposed a truce and terms of peace which were accepted. They were that the vessels should be returned to the owners and that hereafter the fish and crabs in Virginia waters should not be molested by Marylanders.

Killed Three and Fatally Injured Four Others.

Ithaca, Mich., June 26.—The boiler in Frank Gardner's stave mill at North Star, near here, exploded yesterday afternoon, killing Charles Brown, Fred Tucker and the engineer, name unknown, whose head was off, and fatally injuring four others, including the proprietor. The mill was totally destroyed.

A Possible Case of Yellow Fever in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 26.—Fred Kenseler, a sailor on schooner Three Sisters, which arrived several days ago from Savannah, was taken to a hospital yesterday, suffering from what seems to be yellow fever. The vessel passed inspection at Quarantine, Kenseler's case being diagnosed as malaria. The health board will look carefully into the case today.

Chicago, June 26.—The heat in this city yesterday and last night was very oppressive and five deaths by sunstroke are reported. The temperature is more comfortable this morning. Despatches from other points in the state show that the mercury registered from 99° to 102° in the shade, and several cases of prostration are reported.

Following were the speakers:—Salutatory, "The Founder of the University," Lieutenant S. B. Adams; "The Western Tendency," Captain C. F. Parker; "Engineering as a Profession," Lieutenant C. F. More Race Troubles in Barnwell County, South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., June 26.—There is trouble between the races near Bamberg, in Barnwell county, S. C. It was begun on Saturday, when a party of negroes took a boat belonging to a white man, despite his protest, and went fishing. When they returned the negroes were attacked by the whites and Robert Kearse, one of the whites, was injured. Two nights ago Kearse and a number of his friends went to the house of the negro who appeared to be the leader of the party. The negroes were concealed in ambush near the house, evidently expecting an attack, and fired upon the whites, eight of whom were wounded, but none, dangerously. The negroes then fled. Joe Glover, supposed to have been in the party, has since been captured and severely whipped, but will not tell where his friends are. It is expected that if those who took an active part in the shooting are arrested there will be further trouble.

11 A. M.—The stock market this morning showed a marked re-action from the high prices reached last evening and first prices were generally ⅛ @ ½ lower, Louisville & Nashville being exceptional, with a loss of ¾, while Pacific Mail and Sugar were higher. There was some improvement in prices in the first few minutes' trading and Reading again touched 47, but they again yielded and retired to slightly below the opening figures. Sugar was the only feature and, after opening up ⅜ at 70, it rose quickly to 72, but retired fractionally later in the hour. A firmer feeling prevailed in the general list toward 11 o'clock but no movement of note occurred and dullness and stagnation were the only features of the dealings, although Reading, Atchison, Louisville & Nashville and St. Paul showed considerable animation. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and steady to firm at small fractions under first prices.

Noon—Money on call, easy at 3 @ 4 per cent.; prime mercantile paper, 5 @ 7; exchange, quiet and firm; actual rates, $4.83⅝ @ ¾ for sixty days, and $4.86⅞ @ 4 for demand; posted rates, $4.84½ @ 8⅞; bar silver, 104¼; governments, dull and barely steady; 4s reg., 121⅝; 4s coup., 122⅝; 4½s reg., 103; 4s coup., 103; railroad bonds, dull and steady to firm; Pacific 6s, 113. The stock market was still very dull after 11 o'clock and Chicago Gas became the feature of the trading, developing marked weakness on a largely increased business. It fell away from 55½ at 11 o'clock and 56¼ at the opening to 53⅞. The stocks of the regular list sympathized at first and retired slightly. These losses were again recovered later in the hours and at noon the market was again very dull and steady at small fractions under first prices.

THE SLAVERY OF WOMEN.

Bishop Spaulding's Notable Remarks in Behalf of the Fair Sex.

Notre Dame, Ind., June 26.—The recent radical declarations of Bishop Spaulding of Peoria, speaking to the faculty and students of Notre Dame University on the position of women, have created a sensation here among Catholics. Last evening, at the commencement of St. Mary's Academy, he went even further. After having complimented the work of the sisters of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, he said that the position of women had been the position that the southern planters gave their slaves. It was no better today than it was years ago. They were treated kindly, as the slaves of the men he knew had been treated, but kept in ignorance. In this country, however, women had emancipated themselves. American women are more intelligent than American men. He demanded the highest education for women, and declared that she must henceforth work side by side with man for the prize for which men work and win. The bishop's words seemed very like a statement of advanced belief in woman's rights. They were applauded again and again.

TRINITY COLLEGE.

A Rogers High School Graduate Has Second Honors.

Hartford, Conn., June 26.—The commencement exercises of Trinity College were held this forenoon, beginning with prayers in Christ's Church. Littell of Wilmington, Del.; "The Evolution of the Republic," Uriel H. Spencer of Hartford; "James Russell Lowell," Theo. L. Cheritree of Oak Hill, N. Y.; "Centralization," Henry H. Barber of Washington, N. C.; "Louis IV and the Huguenots," John Williams of Seymour; "Poetry and Science, not Antagonistic," with valedictory, Clifford S. Griswold of Wethersfield. The degree of A. B. was conferred upon twenty and the degree of B. S. upon five graduates.

The Illinois Central Railroad Strike.

Centralia, Ill., June 26.—The Illinois Central strike is now in full blast. All the crews on the main line between Centralia and Dubuque went out yesterday. Those on the Cairo divisions are now all out, and not a wheel turns, except to carry the mail. Train Master Higgins attempted to take out a train in the afternoon, but the cars were uncoupled and the engine was taken to the roundhouse by the strikers.

The degree of A. M. was conferred upon eighteen members of the class of 1887. It was voted that the degree of A. Lynn, Mass., June 26.—Lynn is not liable to receive her proper standing as regards population, if present indications are further verified. Several days ago the Daily Item made the request that all persons who had been omitted by the enumerators send in their names and they would be published. The names began to come in a few at a time, and this morning forty names were received of residents of one of the principal streets.

A NOTABLE SUICIDE.

A Former Mayor of New Haven, Conn., Shoots Himself.

New Haven, June 26.—Lucien W. Sperry, one of New Haven's most prominent citizens not many years ago, shot and killed himself this morning at 11 o'clock. He was 70 years old, and had served the city as mayor and had represented it in the legislature. He was a descendant of one of the earliest families of New Haven and was one of the best known men in the city. He was a brother of Postmaster N. D. Sperry. The suicide was caused by financial troubles.

Mr. Sperry was some years ago appointed the trustee of an estate valued at $16,000. Within the past few weeks relatives have been trying to get control of the estate, and Mr. Sperry was brought before the probate court to render his account. Of the estate he could account for but $4,000 or $5,000, and in consequence of this he was practically adjudged an embezzler and he would doubtless have been arrested, brought to trial and sent to state prison had he not shot himself this morning. Beside this he had worsted several men in different ways, owed the city several thousand dollars for back taxes and altogether he was under at least $50,000 criminal indebtedness, without a dollar with which to clear himself. Mr. Sperry always lived in fine style and had passed much of his life in Europe. The suicide has caused a great sensation, as Mr. Sperry shot himself in his house, which is in one of the most fashionable parts of Orange street.

The Municipal Council of Rome Resigns.

Rome, June 26.—There was a heated debate at the meeting of the municipal council last night in regard to the bill introduced into the Chamber of Deputies by Prime Minister Crispi to assist in the re-organization of the financial affairs of the municipality. At the conclusion of the discussion all the members of the council, except Menotti Garibaldi, resigned as a protest against the premier's measure. Signor Garibaldi declared that he would retain his seat. His friends cheered him heartily, but others in the audience hissed him. The reporters who were in attendance at the meeting interfered on behalf of Signor Garibaldi and an altercation with his opponents in the audience ensued. It was found necessary to call in the police to quell the disturbance.

Holy Cross College.

Worcester, Mass., June 26.—The exercises attending the forty-seventh annual commencement of Holy Cross College are in progress today at that institution. Governor Brackett is present and will make a brief address. The degree of master of arts was conferred upon W. F. Byrns, M. D., Washington D. C.; Thomas D. Murphy, Brooklyn, N. Y.; F. T. Mara, M. D., Boston; Patrick Kilroy, Springfield; Owen J. Eagan, D. D. S., Fall River. The degree of B. A. was conferred upon thirty graduates.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Washington, June 26.

House.

Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts began the debate upon the national election bill. He said that he did not think a more grave and serious subject had ever come before the House. It demanded serious and deliberate treatment. He had no personalities or reflections to make, but desired to treat the question dispassionately. The bill proposed to extend existing laws regarding the election of members so that they would be effective throughout the United States whenever the people wanted them so extended. He proceeded to sketch the plan of the bill in outline. No local machinery was disturbed, he said, ballots were to be cast as at present and no secret ballot system was to be interfered with where it now prevailed.

JAMESTOWN.

[Jamestown office of the Daily News, 2 Horgan block, near steamer landing, where the paper may be had, or subscriptions and advertisements be left.]

Mr. Charles Fletcher of Providence came down with a party of friends yesterday afternoon in his steam yacht Sentinel. The yacht was anchored off the ferry. Mr. Fletcher and his friends, Mr. Howard of Providence, Mr. Charles E. Stickney of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. E. M. Welsh of Hartford, Conn., came ashore and made a short call at the Gardner House. Captain Gardner was invited on board and enjoyed, for a brief season, the hospitalities of the owner of the fine vessel.

Mr. P. P. Brown has purchased the fine double buckboard owned by Mr. G. S. Strawbridge of Philadelphia.

The office of Mr. Daniel Watson, real estate agent, was closed yesterday on account of the death of his brother, Mr. Stephen A. Watson.

There will be a free concert at the Gardner House parlors Saturday evening.

Mr. J. A. Brown of Norwich, Conn., brother of Mr. P. P. Brown of this place, was here yesterday. He proposes to commence immediately a two story house upon the lot recently purchased by him of the Samuel Carr heirs, on Broadway, Newport.

Master Nelson Emmons, son of Mr. G. B. Emmons, who went to Falmouth several days since, is expected to arrive today in a new catboat, which was built for him at that place.

Rev. George Neal, Jr., of Philadelphia, will preach at the Town Hall next Sunday evening. Mr. Neal was for several years a very successful evangelist, but is now pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Philadelphia, and has a large congregation. He is a young man and a very interesting speaker, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of our people to hear him.

Admiral Porter went to Newport today. He is in much better health than last season and appears to be renewing his age.

A teacher in a public school within a hundred miles of Jamestown wrote the following sentence on the blackboard:—"Speak of the era of good feeling." A scholar being asked to read it read:—"Speak of the error of good fishing." Some think that bicycle riding affects the handwriting of the rider.

The following are registered at the Gardner House:—Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Clark, Mrs. R. E. Buer, Mr. D. H. Clarke, St. Louis; Miss B. P. Coleman, Providence; Mr. Charles J. Tucker, Narragansett; Mr. Pardon Tucker, Jamestown; Mrs. J. S. Gibbs, Miss Gibbs, Mr. Rufus Gibbs, Master J. S. Gibbs, Baltimore; Miss Josephine Corbet, Mrs. Ellison Perot, Miss A. L. Perot, Philadelphia.

Arrivals at the Bay View: Mrs. Charles W. Sever, Mr. J. W. Sever, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Thomas Balch, Miss Balch, Mr. E. S. Balch, Mr. T. W. Balch, Philadelphia.

Mr. E. Miller of Middletown, New York, was in town today.

The many friends of Rev. W. P. Richardson, who has spent many summers at this place, will be saddened to learn of his death.

Messrs. C. T. Cottrell and Fred H. Clarke and Miss Mattie Cottrell have arrived home from their several colleges.

The water works ditchers have struck considerable rock on Narragansett avenue, but good progress is being made, the pipe layers keeping well up to the diggers, and without doubt the water will be running through the pipes at the time agreed upon, or perhaps before.

Mrs. J. S. Lovering of Philadelphia is at her cottage.

General Robert Patterson of Philadelphia and family have arrived at their summer cottage in the Highlands.

Dr. D. B. Birney has hung out his sign at the "Main Top" cottage.

Dr. W. A. Watson of New York is in town today.

Mr. David Albro has men at work today making the ticket office at the Newport landing for the ferry company.

The signal corps from Fort Adams are at stations in the south part of the island today, continuing the exercises of Tuesday.

The Adams Express Company has taken an office in Horgan's block and will run two express wagons daily, across the ferry, calling for and delivering packages from and for Newport, Narragansett Pier and all points. Special rates will be made for regular customers.

THE PHILADELPHIA'S TRIAL.

The result of the Philadelphia's trial is not yet known, as she went to sea immediately after returning from the test yesterday, and was so far off shore during the run that her time could not be taken by the landsmen. The conditions for the trial were all that could be desired—a light breeze and comparatively smooth sea. The trial was made early in the afternoon, the new cruiser steaming over the forty mile course to Block Island and return. Her speed is pronounced by those who saw her as something marvelous, and those who went out in a tug to get an instantaneous photographic view of her had opportunity for only one exposure. The Vesuvius, which had received orders to keep five miles ahead of the Philadelphia to keep the track clear, was unable to keep up with the new cruiser and steadily dropped behind. Mr. Frank H. Childs of this city secured one good picture of the flying vessel, which will appear in next week's issue of the Illustrated American.

MRS. NEILSON'S TROUBLE.

[From the New York Herald of today.]

A tall, graceful, richly dressed and handsome woman created something of a sensation among the gamins of Mulberry street in New York yesterday afternoon at about half-past four o'clock by driving up to the police headquarters building in a handsome victoria. She inquired for Inspector Byrnes and sought him in his office. The lady was Mrs. Frederick Neilson, nee Isabella Gebhard, of No. 100 Fifth avenue, a well-known New York woman, the sister of Mr. Fred Gebhard and the widow of Frederick Neilson, the lawyer and club man. Her interview with Inspector Byrnes lasted about an hour.

Last night I called upon Mrs. Neilson at her Fifth avenue residence.

"Will you tell me the nature of the trouble that prompted your call on Inspector Byrnes today, Mrs. Neilson?" I asked.

"Why, I don't admit that I was there," she responded. "How do you know that I was?"

"But you don't say that you were not there?"

"I will tell you that I did call on Inspector Byrnes today, but I don't know as I ought to tell you what for. But in fact it was about a dog—my pet dog, Bluffer. Bluffer was lost on the 30th day of last May and I want to find him. He is a white fox terrier, marked with yellow spots. I had an advertisement put in the Herald offering $50 for his recovery. I haven't got him yet. Now I can't say anything further," said Mrs. Neilson, in a manner indicating that there was something behind all she had said that she would not talk about. "When I lost a diamond bracelet some time ago a man came up here and wrote altogether too much about it."

The dog vanished from the front steps of the house about two weeks before Mr. Fred Gebhard left for Europe. Mrs. Neilson did not explain how it was that, although Bluffer was lost on May 30, she had just concluded to interest Inspector Byrnes in the case, but at police headquarters last night the opinion was expressed that the dog had been stolen and that the thief was holding him with the expectation of compelling Mrs. Neilson to pay a larger ransom for him than she had offered. It was said he had probably written to Mrs. Neilson, and this had caused her to put the case in Inspector Byrnes's hands.

BASE BALL.

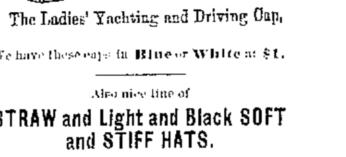

The games postponed by rain last Saturday were, at the time, intended to be played on Saturday next. The Newports, however, found they would be unable to play, and the Pacifics have arranged a game with the E. Reed Goodridge nine, to be played on Morton Park Saturday. The Goodridge nine were knocked out of their date by the New Hampshires arranging to play the Aquidnecks on Saturday. This game will be played on the island.

The new base ball ground, provided by Mr. A. C. Titus, for the uptown district is still in expectation, the grass being uncut. The ground is high, dry and well situated, but will need considerable rolling before it is fit to be played on. It is therefore unlikely that it will be in condition for a good game on July 4, and if, as now seems probable, the Mutuals and Pacifics play on that day it will be in Morton Park.

The Aquidnecks have re-organized for the season, with what promises to be a good nine, a new battery and a number of new players being secured. This nine should avoid the mistakes of the Now-and-Thens and not change their nine after every game.

WORK ON THE SEWER OUTLET.

Captain Waters yesterday set up a six-inch rotary pump at the sewer outlet, and the result was that this morning the trench was very nearly dry. The water has not heretofore interfered much, if at all, with the work, but now that the pile work is nearly completed, and work is being pushed day and night on the brick and stone work of the sewer proper, Street Commissioner Cotton felt it would be best to keep the water out. This the two pumps seem able to do, though the quantity of water leaching through the side of the dock seems to be on the increase. The wooden conduit, carrying the sewage matter through the trench, leaks less than at first, and the coffer-dam appears to be as good as ever. The presence of two portable boilers and two pumps, both running, at the head of the wharf, together with pile drivers, masons, etc., gives the place a very lively look.

Newport Daily News

THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1890.

The Republicans of Georgia are talking of nominating General Longstreet for governor.

According to the Woonsocket Reporter one-third of the population of that city are French-Canadians.

The London postoffice nets the government a profit of $15,000,000 annually and the postmen are striking because they receive only $6 a week for twelve hours' work per day.

A census enumerator in Florida killed a man while going about his district. The fact is reported, but it is not stated whether he counted his victim before or after death.

It is natural for the patriotic citizens of a republic to be Republicans.—[Mail and Express. True enough; and it is a pity that so many of them are switched off by unpatriotic and unstatesmanlike leaders and bosses.

The ambitious cities, East and West, are beginning to howl in concert over the fact that they are not as big as they thought they were. Well, they have consolation in the assurance that there is room for them to grow.

The next half century will undoubtedly witness a remarkable increase in the extension of the railroad systems of the world.—[Exchange. It certainly will if the Westerly Tribune has its way. And among the roads will be one from Westerly to Jewett City.

The ten thousand cloakmakers of New York announce that they have made up their minds to starve and be idle rather than to starve and work fourteen hours per day. They say that the struggle had to be made sooner or later, and that they do not mean to give in until fair wages are allowed them.

The Pennsylvania Republicans, in state convention yesterday, did Senator Quay's bidding in nominating for governor State Senator George W. Delamater. On the first ballot Delamater and General Hastings had each 91 votes, with 56 votes distributed among four other candidates, and on the second ballot Delamater received a majority of the convention. The platform adopted has a good word to say for Quay, and throughout the proceedings it was evident that the Senator was in full control.

The bill to admit Wyoming into the Union is likely to be passed by the Senate before the week is out, but the Idaho bill will probably not be acted upon for several weeks. It is reported from Washington that quite a number of the Republican Senators would be satisfied to have the measure pigeonholed for the remainder of the session at least, but that they dare not place themselves in opposition to it. As the measure has a number of Democratic friends who are urging consideration it is probable that this action will be no longer delayed.

Some of the party organs are of the opinion that the independent newspapers are inconsistent in praising Mr. Blaine, after having censured him so severely years ago, and therein is seen the viciousness of organic journalism. Not to speak well of an opponent when he does well would be the height of inconsistency on the part of an independent paper, however little such things are expected from the organs. We would as soon speak well of Mr. Blaine when he acts the part of the honest statesman as of President Harrison or Grover Cleveland; or, if they were living, of Abraham Lincoln or General Grant. If the mountain complained of the distance between it and Mahomet, it certainly had no occasion for invective when the prophet yielded the point and came to its base.

The House judiciary committee has at last come to a conclusion regarding the Senate "original package" bill, having decided to report a substitute, which is broader in its scope than the Senate bill, inasmuch as its provisions apply to all articles of interstate commerce, whereas the Senate bill only applies to intoxicating liquors. The substitute is as follows:—"That whenever any article of commerce is imported into any state from any other state, territory or foreign nation, and there held or offered for sale, the same shall then be subject to the laws of such state, provided that no discrimination shall be made by any state in favor of its citizens against those of other states in respect to the sale of any article of commerce, nor in favor of its own products against those of like character produced in other states; nor shall the transportation of commerce through any state be obstructed except in the necessary enforcement of the health laws of such state."

Hon. Chauncey M. Depew will be president of the national world's fair commission, having agreed to accept the position which the Chicago managers will offer him. At first Mr. Depew refused to permit his name to be mentioned, and it was because of this that ex-Minister Palmer of Michigan entered the lists as a candidate. When Mr. Depew finally decided to permit his name to be mentioned in this connection he stipulated that his acceptance depended upon a unanimous choice of the national commissioner, but the understanding now is that there is no qualification whatever, as it is well known that Mr. Palmer has some adherents who will vote for him in preference to Mr. Depew. There is likely to be considerable friction between the local directors and the national commission, but the law gives the latter all the power, and even on the question of site the commissioners will have full sway, and it is doubtful if they will accept the lake front, as most of them think at least a thousand acres should be devoted to fair purposes.

The Senate yesterday discussed the bill admitting Wyoming to the Union, Mr. West speaking in opposition and Mr. Platt in favor of the measure. At the close of Mr. Platt's remarks he made an effort to have the vote taken on the bill; but Mr. Vest objected, and the Senate adjourned. In the House the conference report on the naval appropriation bill was agreed to and the bill was sent to the President. The silver bill was discussed by Messrs. Morse, McAdoo, Peters, Taylor, McCutcheon, Dunnell, Williams, Breckinridge, Stockdale and McKinley. After several motions in favor of the Senate amendments had been voted down, the House, by a vote of 152 to 135, non-concurred in the Senate's action, and a conference with the Senate was asked for. Twenty-three Republicans voted for free coinage, and twenty-two Democrats, with the Republicans, in support of the House bill. The conference report on the diplomatic appropriation bill was agreed to and the federal elections bill was taken up, the House adopting a resolution to proceed with the consideration of this measure until July 2 at 2 o'clock, "when the previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill, and any pending amendments, and on the substitute for the whole bill which the members in charge of the bill shall have the right to offer." The resolution was discussed by Messrs. McMillin, Blount, Cannon, Flower, Belden and O'Neall of Indiana amid an uproar of the House. Mr. Springer moved to table the resolution, and on a yea and nay vote this motion was lost—yeas, 110; nays, 193—Mr. Coleman of Louisiana being the only Republican who voted with the Democrats. The resolution was then adopted, and after arranging to meet at 11 o'clock for the six days during which the debate is to continue the House adjourned.

BLAINE AND BUTTERWORTH.

Congressman Butterworth is in hearty sympathy with Mr. Blaine in his desire for reciprocity in trade between the American states. "Thank God," he says, "for the indication that the sun of narrow-gauge statesmanship is about to set and our international trade relations will be dictated no longer from cabbage and potato patches along our northern and southern borders."

With such men as Blaine in the East and Butterworth in the West, both recognized leaders in the party and both still avowed protectionists, calling for a halt, there are signs of promise in a quarter of the political sky where they were least expected. Washington despatches go to show that there is an uneasy feeling all along the line, and a growing conviction that the McKinley bill is carrying matters quite too far. Still the country has little to hope from the present Congress, which is so fully dominated by a man who is pledged to the beneficiaries of the present bill to the extent of his ability. It is probably as well that the McKinley bill should go through with all its enormities. The old shareholders, having the power in their hands, hastened the time of their overthrow by many years through the exercise of their authority in pressing equally extreme methods. And as the re-action came then with tremendous force, so will the success of this scheme stir the hearts of the people and arouse their enthusiasm for better things.

ENGINEERING MISTAKES.

Providence is having a serious time with its Fruit Hill reservoir, which was built a few years ago at a cost of some $150,000. It appears to have been a leaky concern from the first and through somebody's fault a bad investment from foundation to topstone. As to whose fault it may be we have nothing to say, though it would seem that the engineer in charge should have had authority not only to plan, but also to prosecute the work to completion. But when we recall the double-headed system adopted in Newport a few years ago, by which one officer was to plan and another to execute, we can clearly see that, if there was such a divided responsibility in Providence, the verdict may well be "nobody to blame;" or at least that nobody can tell to whom the fault attaches. Be this as it may our sister city is called upon for $75,000 to cover defects, as the reservoir has now to be largely rebuilt.

Newport's experience is somewhat similar. One of the most important features of our sewerage system was the outlet, and how best to get the sewage of the city across to Goat Island and beyond was a problem not easily solved. The engineers presented a plan which the unscientific people from the beginning pronounced impracticable. The people of the First ward declared openly against a "brick sewer on stilts" and said, as they viewed the progress of the work, that the sewer could not endure the storms and tides to which it was exposed. But as they were not presumed to know what they were talking about the work went on and the sewer was completed according to the original draft. The evidence is in hand to show that the brick became cracked and unsafe for the purpose for which it was built the very first year, and when it finally collapsed very few who were familiar with the situation were disappointed or surprised. As now seen the wonder is that it stood so long and kept up an outside show for so many months. The city of Newport has the privilege of rebuilding at a cost of some ten or twelve thousand dollars by way of correcting the mistakes of the original builders a privilege which the taxpayers do not relish.

The defective outlet raises many suspicions as to other parts of the work and a good many are arguing that other troubles are before us in connection with the present system. We trust not, though our confidence is not so strong as it might have been had we not so expensive an object lesson before us. Our sewers cost us enough to be of the best character, and we shall anticipate no series of disasters like the present. Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof, and so we shall hope on for the best.

THE NEW LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

The building now in course of erection for a national library, or, as it is called, the "Congressional Library," will be, on its completion, the most admirably arranged, the most commodious and the largest library building in the world.

The dimensions of the great library building will be 470 feet long by 340 feet wide, with cellars and three full stories and an attic, giving abundant room for the present and the future demands of the library for many generations. The large rotunda, which will be the general reading room, will be 100 feet in diameter and 160 feet high. Its octagon walls, pierced with windows on every side, and the huge dome—a great skylight—render it impossible that any shadow can obscure the book of the reader in whatever part of the rotunda he may be seated. The building as at present designed provides for the contemplated and natural increase of 30,000 volumes a year for a period of 130 years, and at that far distant period it will contain 5,500,000 books.

Inside, the building when completed will contain ample provision for 4,500,000 volumes, and when the vast courtyard is required, provision can there be made for an additional 1,000,000 books. Mr. Spofford furnishes the following comparison with the great libraries of the world as the best illustration of its proportions, and the provision it affords for many generations to come:—

La Bibliotheque National, Paris	2,500,000	vols
	150,000	MSS
The Arsenal library, Paris	260,000	vols
St. Genevieve library, Paris	250,000	"
Mazarin library, Paris	160,000	"
Royal library, Madrid	450,000	"
Royal library, Naples	220,000	"
Royal library, Vienna	400,000	"
Royal library, Munich	600,000	"
Royal library, Dresden	600,000	"
University, Gottingen	700,000	"
Library, Berlin	700,000	"
Library, Strasburg	550,000	"
Royal library, Copenhagen	550,000	"
Imperial library, St. Petersburg	900,000	"
	320,000	MSS
Harvard library	201,000	vols
Astor library	250,000	"
Boston public library	400,000	"

Each of the public departments at Washington is provided with libraries, and the aggregate number of volumes contained in all were, in 1876, 650,000 volumes, and pamphlets, 116,000 volumes.

The style of architecture, which possesses all the requirements as well as the possibilities of adornment for such a great edifice, is the Italian renaissance. The building will occupy about four acres, and when the courtyards are utilized, as time may demand, that space will be entirely under roof. The British museum and library occupy about eight acres, but that space is filled with separate buildings, and accommodates the large collection contained in the British Museum. The large mass of paintings, and infinite and innumerable objects of interest in every known department of knowledge grows so rapidly in this great national depository that enlarged accommodations are soon to be provided.

The national library of France, the Bibliotheque Nationale, occupies four acres, and the books contained in it outnumber any library in Europe; but for the student and general reader the great mass of them are unavailable, for they remain in that state of chaos, unclassified, as when during the revolution and subsequent wars they were dumped, as so many bales, when carted from the monasteries and the ruined chateaux and libraries of the despoiled nobility. No attempt seems to have been made to catalogue them, and no catalogue beyond 1870 has been made in this really great depository of learning. It has long been a subject of regret to the world in general that no attempt has been made by any of the governments by which France has been ruled since 1820 to bring order out of the literary chaos. The municipal libraries of Paris, however, meet all the requirements of her people. There are distributed throughout the city at least fifty libraries, where books, drawings and music are loaned to those engaged in the studies needing these accommodations. In this particular mode of education it far surpasses any city in the world. Someone, writing on this subject, asked of the custodians or the librarians in charge of these municipal branches if the books, music and drawings were not frequently mutilated and many of them never returned. They replied, the mutilation was only the usual result of handling, and never of design; and the loss of the books lent was very rare.

This great national library of America will be completed by the year 1897—fully completed—and turned over to the charge of the librarian and custodians of the vast building. —[Harper's Weekly.

EXTENSION OF THE SECRET BALLOT.

The Narragansett Weekly, Senator Utter's paper quotes the Newport News in which we criticised the action of the Senate in failing to pass a secret ballot law that shall apply to towns as well as cities, and proceeds to give the reasons why such action was not taken. It assures its readers that the failure was not because the Senate is opposed to such a change but because of difficulties that require time in order to be overcome. The article concludes as follows:—

Now one word in general as to the so-called secret ballot system. Though it has had but a single trial in Rhode Island, the people of the state are unanimous in its praise, and it will be suicidal for any political party or partisan to attempt to prevent its extension just so far as is practicable. Among those who have been studying its workings, with a view to perfecting it, this opinion is no less general than among the people at large; but those who have been so studying it find that it cannot be adopted instantly for elections of every kind, and there are many among them who are working to overcome the difficulties and to remove the obstacles. For such we wish to bespeak the patience of the people, and to suggest that it is much easier to tell in a few sentences what a law ought to accomplish than to make a law which will accomplish it. We have no hesitancy in predicting, however, that before any town will hold its next annual election of officers there will be perfected for its use a law embodying the principle of the secret ballot, which it can use if it so desires.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION AND INDEBTEDNESS.

To the Editor of the Daily News:—

SIR:—A few months since you published an article of mine made up largely of financial and statistical facts and intended to show the citizens and taxpayers of Newport the relative standing of this favored city compared with other cities in New England and other parts of the country.

I have since given considerable time and research to this same subject and have but confirmed the impression of my previous communication. I have, however, deferred presenting it to your readers till after action had been taken on the proposed new city hall, lest it would be considered as an attempt to boom that project. Now that that question is disposed of I would like again to present some facts to your readers.

The rates of taxation in one hundred cities whose financial statements I have examined show a maximum tax of $4.80 and a minimum of $1 on each $100 of valuation, three of the hundred reaching this low ratio. In ten of the cities selected as representatives, the following have the rates per $100 of valuation at the last assessment:—Chicago, $3.76; New York, $1.95; Fall River, $1.78; Taunton, $1.78; New Bedford, $1.71; Worcester, $1.60; Providence, $1.50; Woonsocket, $1.35; Pawtucket, $1.33; Newport, $1.00.

The following table showing municipal indebtedness will be of interest to all, especially to those who take pride in the exceptionally small debt of Newport. While I am like gratified at Newport's comparatively small debt and abundant ability to carry it, I yet feel that there is much needed in the line of municipal improvements, which could be carried out at slight expense to the present generation, and paid for by future inhabitants of the city.

The following table shows the per capita debt in each city named, if the total debt was divided equally among every man, woman and child:—

Jersey City, N. J.	$80	Buffalo, N. Y.	$35
Baltimore, Md.	71	Woonsocket	35
Cincinnati, O.	52	Fall River	34
Boston, Mass.	79	Kansas City	33
Charleston, S. C.	65	New Bedford	33
New Orleans, La.	65	Cleveland, Ohio	32
Providence	60	Worcester, Mass.	31
Pawtucket	56	Salem, Mass.	30
New York	55	Augusta, Maine	30
Brooklyn	50	Denver, Colo.	29
Newark, N. J.	48	Taunton, Mass.	23
Louisville, Ky.	47	Lynn	14
Philadelphia	46	Chicago	13
St. Louis	41	Indianapolis	13
Albany, N. Y.	41	Newport	9
Pittsburgh, Penn.	40

I fail to find in the list of one hundred cities one where the tax and ratio of indebtedness is as small as in Newport. The ratio of valuation is by law in each state a fair cash value, and it is almost the uniform practice to make the valuation at about 60 or 70 per cent. of the probable market value, so that the basis of assessment is practically uniform.

In Darkest Africa

And the Quest, Rescue and Retreat of Emin, Governor of Equatoria,
BY HENRY M. STANLEY.

Complete in two volumes of over 500 pages each with two steel engravings, not less than sixteen maps and about one hundred and fifty full page and other illustrations.

Published by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

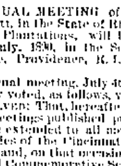

HENRY M. STANLEY, perhaps the foremost living American in pluck, endurance and achievement, HAS JUST FINISHED writing "IN DARKEST AFRICA," the story of his last and greatest undertaking, the quest and rescue of Emin. IT WILL REVEAL for the first time the full extent of Mr. Stanley's recent discoveries. No AUTHENTIC INFORMATION CONCERNING this expedition has yet been published, beyond the few letters and newspaper accounts which have appeared from time to time, during the past three years, and which contain little more than a suggestion of THE DANGERS ENCOUNTERED and overcome, AND THE IMPORTANT RESULTS ACHIEVED. "IN DARKEST AFRICA" will be published shortly by Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons, who control all rights for the United States and the Dominion of Canada. Every volume issued for either country will bear their imprint on the title page.

Mr. Stanley is entitled to the fruits of his labor, and this the American sense of justice will secure to him by purchasing "IN DARKEST AFRICA," his own book and the only one in which he will have a personal interest. Intelligent and well-meaning people will not buy the bogus "Stanley books," offered under false and misleading representations, to no one of which has Stanley contributed a line. They will wait for THE ONLY AUTHENTIC BOOK on the subject, WRITTEN BY STANLEY HIMSELF. "IN DARKEST AFRICA" will be in two octavo volumes, of over 500 pages each, replete with maps, and profusely illustrated with wood engravings from Mr. Stanley's own photographs and sketches. The price will be $3.75 per volume, in cloth binding. Full Morocco Binding, $7.50. It will be sold only by subscription, through authorized agents, to whom exclusive territory will be assigned, and every precaution will be used to protect them therein.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Society of Cincinnati, in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, will be held on the Fourth of July, 1890, in the Senate Chamber, State House, Providence, R. I., at 11 o'clock A. M.

At the annual meeting, July 4th, 1889, it was unanimously voted, as follows, viz.:

1 "RESOLVED: That, hereafter, in the notices of annual meetings published pursuant to law, a request be extended to all members of other State Societies of the Cincinnati, who may be in Rhode Island, on that occasion, to attend the meeting and Commemorative Services."

"2 RESOLVED: That, in the published notice of the next annual meeting, all descendants or representatives of original members of the Rhode Island State Society of the Cincinnati, claiming or desiring to claim hereditary membership therein, be notified to make their respective applications to the Secretary, on or before the first day of July, under penalty, on failure to do so, of being excluded from the succession."

The Morning's News.

Salvator won the match race at Sheepshead Bay yesterday, and made a new record for a mile and a quarter. Over 15,000 people went down to the race track to see the contest between Salvator and Tenny. It was one of the grandest ever seen on an American race course. There was no delay at the post and the horses were sent away at once. Salvator took the lead and made the pace a very fast one. Passing the stand he was half a length in front of Tenny, and this lead he increased to a length and a half on the upper turn. As they reached the far turn Salvator drew away and led by nearly three lengths. Then Garrison commenced to ride and whip and Tenny closed up the gap inch by inch. At the last sixteenth Tenny was gaining fast on Salvator, when Murphy brought the whip down twice on Salvator and he managed to keep his head in front of the wire, winning by about half a head. The fractional time of the race is as follows:—Quarter, 25; half, 49 3-5; mile, 1.39 3-4, equalling Ten Broeck's time; 1 1-8 miles, 1.52 3-4, and mile and a quarter, 2.05.

A re-organization of the civil service commission is regarded as likely to occur very soon. If, as is probable, Commissioner Lyman has to resign and Commissioner Thompson is put on the new board of appraisers, one of the Democratic members, Theodore Roosevelt, will be left alone. He will probably be made president of the new board. William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, Charles J. Bonaparte of Maryland and other well-known civil service reformers are talked of for the vacancies. So are Proctor Knott of Kentucky, Courtland Mattson of Indiana and other politicians. If Roosevelt could select his new associates they would be thorough civil service reformers, but the President is liable to influence, which might make the appointment of the best men impracticable. Roosevelt's idea is said to be to reduce the commission to one member, with a salary of $5,000 or $7,500, and make Governor Thompson that one commissioner. There is no present prospect of this.

A special regatta will be held off New York on Monday, July 7, under the auspices of the American Yacht Club. Members of the New York, Larchmont, Eastern, Seawanhaka-Corinthian, Atlantic, New York Corinthian, Oyster Bay Corinthian, New Haven, New Rochelle, Riverside, Corinthian of Marblehead and New Bedford Yacht Clubs are invited to enter their yachts. Prizes will be offered in each class where two yachts start with full intention of completing the course, and in a class where four or more yachts start a second prize will be given. All yachts must be classified according to their load water line length. Entries must be made in writing and delivered to a member of the regatta committee, not later than Saturday, July 5, at 4 o'clock P. M. Two courses will be sailed, each to be along Long Island sound.

It seems more than likely that today every railroad entering Chicago will be tied up and the entire carrying trade of the city suspended for an indefinite time. So far as the extent and features of the strike of the Illinois Central trainmen are concerned, yesterday was a repetition of the twenty four hours preceding. The time was taken up with long-winded conferences, in which the Illinois Central representatives showed little sign of yielding. "On the decision of the officials depends the whole issue," said J. D. Caldwell, chairman of the grievance committee, last night. "If it is satisfactory to the men, they will resume work immediately; if not, it is safe enough to say that every road in Chicago will be tied up within a few hours. This will be done through the Brotherhood of Switchmen."

The order of Commodore McCann, recently of the Boston navy yard, to the South Atlantic Station is a surprise to the gossipers, who had planned he should go to Europe. Admiral Walker's squadron will go to New York, and, after repairs and docking, will be sent to Europe again. This is the present intention, and if no trouble arises in foreign quarters this plan will be carried out. Admiral Walker's orders are discretionary, but he will await the arrival of Commodore McCann before coming north. The squadron of evolution on its next European trip will include the Chicago, Boston, Atlanta and possibly the Concord, Bennington, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

The Louisiana house of representatives yesterday, after debating the proposition at length, passed the lottery bill submitting to the popular vote a constitutional amendment continuing the Louisiana State Lottery Company for 25 years, in return for $1,000,000 a year to be paid by the company. The vote stood 66 to 29, just enough to pass the bill. The bill is reasonably certain to pass the senate with the same two-thirds majority. It cannot be vetoed by the governor, but goes before the people in April, 1892, and will have to receive a majority of all the votes then to become a law.

The cases against Muldoon, Cleary and Donovan were called in the circuit court at Purvis, Miss., yesterday, when pleas of guilty were entered, each asking clemency of the court. Judge Terrell fined Muldoon $250, and Cleary and Donovan each $100. The fines were paid and the prisoners released. Kilrain was present, and stated that he had challenged Sullivan to fight to a finish, either with bare knuckles or light gloves, London prize ring rules, the fight to come off in Fort Worth, Texas, for the purse offered by the Fort Worth Athletic Club.

Yesterday's base ball games resulted as follows:—

Players' League. At Chicago—Chicago, 10; Boston, 7. At Cleveland—Cleveland, 10; Brooklyn, 8. At Buffalo—Philadelphia, 6; Buffalo, 1. At Pittsburg—New York, 14; Pittsburg, 11.

National League. At Pittsburg—Boston, 10; Pittsburg, 6. At Cincinnati—Cincinnati, 2; New York, 1. At Chicago—Chicago, 6; Brooklyn, 4. At Cleveland—Philadelphia, 5; Cleveland, 1.

Another step is taken toward the confederation of the Australian colonies by the new Western Australia constitution bill, which grants all that the Western Australians ask in regard to the government of the great Northern territory of that continent, and hands over to them more than one-third of Australia, with great mineral resources, large gold fields and pearl fisheries, and a coast line of 3,500 miles.

Representative Buckalew of Pennsylvania, of the committee on the election of President, Vice President and Representatives in Congress, has on behalf of the Democratic members of the committee prepared a minority report in opposition to the federal election bill. The report presents at length the objections of the minority to the bill, which in their opinion, demands consideration and debate.

Representative Dingley, from the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, yesterday reported favorably to the House the bill recommended by the International Marine Conference for the prevention of collisions at sea. Mr. Dingley also reported favorably from the same committee the bill defining the duties of masters of vessels in case of collisions.

Fifteen yachts of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club anchored in Black Rock harbor, Conn., yesterday, preparatory to starting on their annual cruise. This morning they were to sail for New London. A display of fireworks was given on board the yachts last night, and a reception was given the yachtsmen by T. W. Pearsal at his residence.

Senator Jones of Nevada said yesterday that the result of the deliberations of the conferees on the silver bill will be a bill providing for the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver every month and for the redemption of the coin certificates clothed with full legal tender.

The official notice of President Seelye's retirement from Amherst College says his resignation is to take effect at the close of the present college year, August 31, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

Several big manufacturers of Dresden have decided to establish mills in America for the manufacture of textile fabrics, providing the McKinley bill passes.

The result of the census enumeration gives New Haven, Conn., a population of between 82,000 and 83,000 a gain since the last census of nearly 20,000.

I saw her sailing toward me on the street,
Her face was pretty as a face could be;
Her dress with cunning art was cut to fit
Her slim and graceful figure to a T.

But as I passed I heard a woman say,
With envy emphasized in each word hard,
"I seen some stuff like that what she's got on
In Gingum's store for seven cents a yard."

The tendency of the newspaper reader today seems to be to demand information as to the personal characteristics of public men. In view of this fact it seems strange to the Washington Post that no one has pointed out the circumstance that in his early youth George Washington had a great fondness for chops.

Mr. Dumpsey—Well, Johnny, what did you sing at Sunday school today? Johnny Dumpsey—Oh, a boss hymn, pa. It begun, "I am a little greenhorn in a half a cheese." Fanny Dumpsey (indignantly)—It wasn't any such thing, pa! It was, "I am a little gleaner in the harvest sheaves."—[Burlington Free Press.

EVANGELISTS IN CONFERENCE.

A conference, under the auspices of the Evangelistic Association of New England, was opened at the First Baptist Church this morning and will continue through the day and evening. The meetings are held under the direction of John E. Gray, secretary of the association, and are intended to bring together the pastors and members of the local churches to hear the addresses of those interested in evangelistic work. There was quite a large audience during the morning, including the pastors of the several evangelistic churches, many business men and a number of women. The conference was opened at 9.30 o'clock with devotional exercises led by S. K. Mitchell. The first topic on the program was "Evangelistic Meetings in Small Churches and Destitute Places," upon which Rev. L. S. Woodworth of Providence and Rev. E. M. Wilson were to speak. Neither appeared at the hour set and the topic was discussed by Evangelists Allen Folger, John A. McElwain and John E. Gray. The last named speaker gave a few statistics, which were not highly creditable to Rhode Island or New England. He said that there were eight hundred churches in New England without pastors; that five per cent. only of the people of Rhode Island were church members; that only eight per cent. of the people of New England were members, while in the United States the percentage was twenty.

Rev. E. E. Davidson spoke at length on the topic "How to Make Evangelistic Services Successful," and at the conclusion answered a number of questions upon the subject, asked by members of the congregation. When he had finished speaking, Rev. Mr. Woodworth, who had arrived some time behind his appointment, owing to the lateness of the boat, spoke briefly but earnestly upon the topic assigned to him, and at 12.30 o'clock the meeting closed with singing and prayer.

This afternoon's session was opened by an address by W. B. Savage on "How to Reach the Children." The discussion of the topic "Unfruitful Churches—Reasons, Remedy" was opened by Rev. N. H. Harriman, who spoke in place of Rev. R. S. Underwood, who was detained at home by illness. Rev. George C. Needham, whose revival services at the Central Baptist Church several years ago are still fresh in the memory of many in Newport, opened the discussion of the subject "What to Preach," and the concluding topic, "Evangelistic Work in Summer," was discussed by Rev. S. Hartwell Perry. This evening's session will be opened by a praise service at 7 o'clock, to be followed at 7.30 by addresses by Rev. H. L. Hastings and Rev. George C. Needham, and the conference to close with an address, "The Holy Spirit," by Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D.

THE ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY.

The Adams Express Company is one of the oldest and largest of the carrying companies of this country and has always been conservative in its management. It would therefore surprise the older patrons of the company should they visit the present local office in the Newton building, Pelham street. For thirteen years the company occupied the corner store of the old building, and when the new one was started the Pelham street store was specially designed for their use. That it was successfully planned will be apparent to anyone who visits it. The abundant floor and office room, the handsome furnishings and the neatness of everything about the place make it the handsomest office of the company in New England. The facilities for handling express matter for all parts of the country are, as all shippers know, equal, if not superior, to those of any other company. But "not satisfied with this" the Newport office is taking special pains to fill the demand for local expressage. To this end the limits of delivery by the company's wagons have been extended to Bateman's point and the Land Trust cottages.

The company has arranged for a branch office in Horgan's block, Jamestown, and for two expresses daily to that place, leaving Newport at 9.15 A. M. and 3 P. M., and returning in time to catch the early afternoon and late expresses, giving excellent accommodations to this section at reasonable rates. An express is also run to Narragansett Pier, on each trip of the boat, so that the trouble so long experienced of delivering packages at these resorts no longer exists.

The wagons, horses and drivers of the company correspond in neatness to the very handsome local office, which, with its new advantages, will undoubtedly greatly increase the company's local and through business.

GOVERNOR DAVIS AT THE TRAINING STATION.

According to arrangement Governor Davis, accompanied by Secretary of State McGuinness, Executive Secretary Farnsworth and Colonels Von Gottschalk, Hayes and Nichols, arrived at 1 o'clock yesterday on steamer Eolus, and were taken to the Training Station on tug Annie. Mayor Coggeshall and Colonel Howard Smith joined the party. Colonel D. E. Young was unable to attend. On arriving at the island the governor was welcomed with a salute of seventeen guns, and the party was received by the naval battalion, drawn up on the wharf, under Lieutenant Commander Longnecker, and escorted to the commandant's quarters, where Commissary Edds had prepared a collation, which was enjoyed by the officers of the station and their visitors, who then witnessed a very well-executed battalion drill and dress parade by the naval battalion, under Lieutenant Commander Longnecker, with Schoolmaster Daley as adjutant. The drill hall in the gymnasium was next visited, and some excellent singing by the boys, under Singing Master Daniels, was listened to. Then followed a good exhibition of fencing with foils and broadsword, by Professor Castaldi and pupils, and in boxing, by Professor McKenney and pupils, all of which were well appreciated. Artillery drill with howitzers, taking the form of repelling an attacking party with support by the infantry, followed. This was the liveliest portion of the entertainment and was very well executed, the firing of the infantry resembling the work of a number of Gatling guns, while the howitzers were worked with great rapidity for muzzle-loaders. The entire exhibition was a most satisfactory one, and greatly pleased the governor and his party, who returned on tug Annie and went later to Providence.

IMPORTANT NAVAL CHANGES.

The navy was given a big surprise yesterday by the orders directing Commodore McCann to hold himself in readiness to command the South Atlantic station with the Pensacola, Essex and Enterprise as the vessels of his fleet, and the announcement that Acting Rear Admiral Walker was given discretionary orders to leave Brazilian waters with the squadron of evolution whenever the condition of affairs there admitted.

There is considerable speculation as to what all this means. Some say that the new Brazilian government did not take kindly to the presence of the new war vessels in their waters, and in order to show that government that there was no intention on our part to interfere with the forthcoming elections the department concluded to withdraw the special squadron and send instead the three vessels named for a regular tour in those waters, as has heretofore been the custom.

There are many others, however, who believe the present action to be in the line of what was predicted in these despatches at the time the squadron of evolution was first ordered South, viz., that it was the desire of the State Department to have as many vessels as possible in the South Atlantic during the coming elections in September next and that such other vessels as could be spared would be sent to join Walker's fleet. It is therefore surmised that while Rear Admiral Walker has discretionary orders to return at any time, he will not do so before September, and that orders were issued to McCann at this time with a view to augmenting the forces there during the elections.

Beyond the fact that Rear Admiral Walker had orders to return to the United States at any time in his discretion no authoritative statement could be obtained as to when he will sail for home. Commodore Ramsay thought it not unlikely that the squadron of evolution would be in New York early in August, yet, he said, there might be reasons for a longer stay in Brazilian waters. Should he not return before the arrival of Commodore McCann with the squadron regularly assigned to the South Atlantic the fleet in those waters would comprise the Chicago, Boston, Atlanta, Tallapoosa, Pensacola, Essex and Enterprise.

With the three last-named vessels sent South the department is left without any ships for the European station, and the probabilities are that these waters will go unrepresented until the Philadelphia, Concord and Bennington are ready for sea, when a new squadron of evolution will be formed and sent over much the same route taken by the Walker squadron. It is not likely that this new squadron will be ready to leave the United States before January 1. If Rear Admiral Walker returns in season, those much talked-of autumn manoeuvres may yet take place. It is Commodore Ramsay's opinion that they will, and that there will be a large representation of new ships.

QUICK WORK.

At 2.30 P. M. Tuesday, the 24th inst., Mr. Martin E. Bennett, the clothier, was asked if he could furnish seventy five oiled suits for United States ship Jamestown, then lying in the harbor, and have them on board before she sailed on the following morning. He replied that he would endeavor to do so. The result was that the suits were delivered on board the ship at 11.30 Wednesday morning, a few hours before she sailed. This shows enterprise and was quick work.

POLICE NOTES.

William Clarke, Edward Kane, Daniel Scanlan and Samuel Harrington have been arrested for revelling.

Timothy Harrington saw a city lantern this morning on a street obstruction and, just after the officer passed, Timothy took the lantern and put it under his coat. The officer took him in custody.

Mrs. Sarah Sullivan and Annie Harrington retracted their plea of not guilty and pleading guilty they were each sent to the state farm for six months.

The New Bedford dry goods stores will close at 1 o'clock Friday afternoons during the summer, giving their help a half holiday.

Miss Dr. Sweet is at Mrs. Sinnott's, Green street, for two weeks.

A Fall River builder has just closed a contract for a large building, 309x175 feet, to be erected by the Phospo Ammonia Co. of New York, near the fish works at Tiverton. Work will be commenced this week. The building will cost several thousand dollars.

During the tempest Wednesday, a little before 4 o'clock, lightning struck a barn on the Herreshoff place, Prudence island, occupied by Charles H. Potter. The barn was fired, but the blaze was extinguished, before much damage was done, by Mr. Potter and his hired man. The loss on the barn will amount to $75; not insured. Three tons of hay were singed; insured.

WHEN TO CUT CLOVER FOR HAY.

The usual rule is to cut clover for hay when the majority of the heads are beginning to pass out of blossom. Some farmers, especially in dry localities, cut clover in full blossom. Experience and judgment are required to properly cure clover. The less sap the less curing is required; the dryer the climate the less curing. T. B. Terry, one of Ohio's progressive farmers, always aims to have the hay hot when it is drawn in. He emphasizes the importance of drawing in clover hay during the hottest part of the day and before it has collected any dew.

CHURCH ARCHITECTURE IN NEW YORK.

The citizen who has dwelt in Gotham for half a century or so has had opportunity to mark the successive changes in architecture, both of public and private buildings, which have marked different decades. One is particularly struck with it in regard to churches. For full a century previous to 1840 the Grecian style of architecture prevailed, and St. Paul's Church on Broadway, with its Doric columns, built in 1766; St. John's Church, on Varick street, erected in 1807, and preserving the ancient Grecian front; St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, on Barclay street, with its white marble portico and pillars dating back some seventy years, and the Dutch Reformed Church, on Lafayette place, with its massive Ionic columns of gray granite, are fine specimens of this taste in church art, while the Roger Morris mansion (afterward occupied by Madame Jumel, widow of Aaron Burr), which was built in 1770 and is still standing at Tenth avenue and 161st street, is a noble specimen of the old colonial mansion of Grecian style, sporting its pillars and pediment, such as used to dot the banks of the North and East rivers. With the erection of Trinity Church in 1840 a re-action set in in favor of the gothic style in architecture. It is amusing to recall the objections made to this noble edifice at the time of its construction. It was "High Church," "Puseyite" and "Popish." But since that time one denomination after another has taken up the gothic style, until you can no longer tell an Episcopal church from a Baptist or a Methodist, and Dr. Hall's Presbyterian cathedral on the avenue is one of the noblest specimens of gothic architecture in the city. About the same time, too, a change of front took place in domestic architecture, and cherry brick was relegated to the background, while gloomy brownstone fronts were decreed by authority to afford the only decent habitations for families of wealth and fashion.—[Letter in Philadelphia Record.

PLEASURE IN TOIL.

"There is no true craftsman," as Ruskin has more than once said, "who does not find his work a pleasure." That is, he finds it a pleasure if the conditions are fairly favorable, and all the schemes of the social reformers, from Fourier to Bellamy, are brought to bear on just this point, not to save men the necessity of labor, but to give them labor so congenial and so reasonable that it shall be a delight. A young American carpenter once told me that he should be content to work on house building for the rest of his life if it could only be on the terms on which he was then working—having good materials to work on, so that he felt some pride in his labor, and paid by the day, so that he was not tempted to "scamp" his work, he said, for the sake of his family.

Does not Edison enjoy his toil, did not Ericsson enjoy his, apart from all reference to the money or fame it might yield? The artist Haydon in his journal has a noble description of the joy with which he paced his silent studio after midnight, with a great picture lifted on a gigantic easel, and seen by the trembling light of a solitary candle. "The moment I touch a great canvas," he says, "I think I see my Creator smiling on all my efforts. The moment I do mean things for subsistence I feel as if He had turned His back, and, what's more, I believe it." Even thus felt Gibbon, though with less of pious ejaculation, when the great canvas of his "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" had unrolled itself in his studio and he was at work; and so many a humbler man has felt. Exchange the canvases; set Gibbon to doing Haydon's work or Haydon to doing Gibbon's, and doubtless each would be miserable. There are many such unfortunate combinations in the world, but the evil does not lie in the work, only in the misfit.—[T. W. Higginson, in Harper's Bazar.

DRESSING WELL ON LIMITED MEANS.

I am a woman artist, and with economy make a good living. During the winter season I make money, as I cannot fill my orders as fast as received, but in summer I only work about half the time. I believe in good living, and it costs me $12 per week to pay for my board and washing. Now, with your permission, I want to tell how I manage, as among my friends I have the reputation of being a very well-dressed woman, and I am sure I never spend over $350 a year on my wardrobe. One woman says:—"I can't provide evening gowns." I do. In fact, I try to have clothes fit to wear to any place that I might want to go to, as it must make one very unhappy to have to stay at home because "she has nothing to wear."

I take good care of my clothes, and never buy anything in the extreme fashion, as plain colors wear longer and look better. I never buy early in the season, but late, when good materials can be bought for prices that I can afford. I never buy ready made garments. I never buy but two hats a year—one for winter, one for summer—and always "fix up" last year's hats for everyday wear. I wear black or dark colored dresses every day, and look them over quite often, and see that a stitch is taken when needed. I make all my dress skirts and every day waists, sewing an hour or two in the evening when I have it to do. The following will show what I have spent, and how, in the last twelve months:—

Spring gown of cloth	$25
Spring wrap	5
Umbrella	5
Hats for the year	18
Gloves for the year	6
Boots and low shoes for the year	14
Two dark flannel gowns to paint in	10
Two wash dresses	6
Winter cloth gown and coat	35
Fur cape	15
White evening gown	20
Black cashmere gown	18
Silk gown	25
Underwear, hosiery, etc	30
Fixing over last year's gowns	10
Collars, aprons, ribbons, etc.	10
Total	$277

You see, I have something left over for next year if I decide to buy any expensive garments. I allow myself $350 a year for clothes, and by keeping them in order and by using judgment in buying I always make a good appearance. I never buy because the stuff is pretty; it must look as if it would wear "like iron" to tempt me. One year I made all my old clothes do, except shoes and gloves, and put all my money into a seal coat. Next month I intend to have a new lace gown, and when made it will not cost me more than $20; but I fear it would cost some women $50. The secret of dressing well on little lies in the buying, and in being willing to sew some for one's self. What one pays for the making of a dress will often buy another, and it is every woman's privilege to sew and her duty to know how to sew well.—[Correspondent New York Evening Sun.

THE TREASURY SYSTEM OF THE UNITED STATES.

No nation has a better treasury system than the United States. When its regulations are enforced it practically guarantees the government against loss by error or fraud. It involves the division of the department into bureaus, each directly responsible to the Secretary, having little connection with each other, and at least three of which must approve a claim before it can be paid, each thus acting as a check upon the other. It recognizes the fact that the subordinate in a bureau, subject to removal by its chief, will obey the orders of that chief, although they may involve a violation of law, so that checks within a bureau are unreliable. But if the payment of a claim requires an examination by three persons in as many bureaus, and the approval of the heads of each, a conspiracy to defraud becomes difficult and practically impossible. Frauds upon the Treasury proper have been extremely rare. The assistant treasuries are abnormal growths not subject to these checks, and frauds upon them involving large losses have consequently been common. The manufacture and issue of the postal and fractional currency was another excrescence permitted to attach itself to the system, and the account of that issue cannot be verified. It was the only issue of the war about which there existed any doubt. It may be correct, but it is quite possible that some millions of dollars of that currency more than the amount shown by the books of the Treasurer were put in circulation. It might have been done without detection, for the white paper was turned into money ready for issue by a single department, under a single head, without supervision or the co-operation of any other department or person.

Originally adapted to an expenditure of $25,000,000 per annum, the Treasury system had the capacity of indefinite expansion without impairing its security. In March, 1861, it regulated an expenditure averaging about $8,000,000 per month. Within sixty days it increased to more than $2,000,000 per day, and ultimately to more than $1,000,000,000 per annum. Yet the system required no change except an increase of clerical force. Thus it happened that during four years of war more than $3,000,000,000 was received and covered into the Treasury, and an equal value of securities issued and delivered to those who were entitled to receive them, without the loss of one dollar by error or fraud. This statement rests upon absolute demonstration, and not upon evidence alone. The amount is as far as infinity beyond ordinary human comprehension. The statement and the system which verifies it are wonders of finance in a country convulsed by civil war.

The Treasury was the creation of Alexander Hamilton. It will live as long as the nation exists, and everyone who comprehends it will accept it as a monument of the financial ability of its author. It may be criticised by those who do not understand it as an institution of red tape, but no experienced Treasury officer ever advised the removal of one of its checks, or the relaxation of one of its stringent provisions.—[Harper's Magazine for July.

The Bank of England's doors are now so finely balanced that the clerk, by pressing a knob under his desk, can close the outer doors instantly, and they cannot be opened again except by special process. This is done to prevent the daring and ingenious unemployed of the great metropolis from robbing this famous institution. The bullion departments of this and other great English banking establishments are nightly submerged in several feet of water by the action of the machinery.—[New York Tribune.

There are no less than 30 different religious castes in India, and when the railroads were first established no two castes would ride in the same coach. The natives found it inconvenient, however, and now all sorts of castes mix up for a journey, but offset it at the end by calling each other dogs and infidels.—[Detroit Free Press.

The house in which Columbus died at Valladolid is falling into decay, and the Spanish government is much reproached for allowing it to go to ruin. The Italians talk of purchasing it by a national subscription.

It Depends on the Liver.

"Is life worth living?" somebody asked, and the facetious reply was, "That depends on the liver." Health and happiness are twined together. If a man's liver is out of order, his whole system is deranged. He suffers from top to toe. This is the time to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These efficacious little globules are as much in advance of the old fashioned, griping, drastic pills as electric lights are ahead of a wick stuck in whale oil.
